"Being a Christian" by David Walters is a well thought out workbook style edition for kids. It is kid friendly with a high gloss cover, large varying, pink/purple/black print and cute cartoon illustrations. The explanation of the Christian life directs the reader to think and understand without corny Christianese. It includes scripture verses (some with explanatory paraphrases), stories to help teach and a "quiz" at the end of each "chapter". It is not a lengthy workbook but it packs in powerful Biblical facts. It even provides a good representation of the Holy Spirit's role in the Christian life. One thing to note, it is clear this book is written for kids. It speaks about the child's need to choose to believe God for salvation and not rely on parents or family church going as his/her identity as a Christian. This is an exciting challenge which kids need to hear so that as they enter teen years and adulthood they have a personal faith in a personal Savior. Also, please note contrary to the one low review there is no judgmental "black&white" teaching other than the obvious; there's only one way to heaven. If that is upsetting to someone then its doubtful that person has experienced the grace of God herself. Don't hesitate to purchase this book if you're looking for a simple, clear way to reach a kid with the gospel.

This book is very helpful to explain to children just what a christian is. The chapters are short and easy to explain. The questions at the end of each chapter summaries the content very nicely.

This is a great and wonderful book to help with your younger student classes at sunday school. The children enjoy the lessons and they remember why we are called a christian.

I absolutely loved this book, and highly recommend it for new Christians in the 8-12 years range. The illustrations and stories are perfect for kids.

This book, and the series of books in this same format, are excellent resources for teaching the basics of Christianity.

great studies

EXCELLENT teaching tool ã Â Â•

I ordered this book for my 10 1/2 year old son. I read through the book and have decided to not share it with my son. The thoughts expressed are very very black and white-if you're good you'll go to heaven, if you're bad you'll go to hell, etc, giving everything you have to God, etc. I will donate this book to Goodwill.
