I'm using this book for my son's third grade Bible program. It's fast moving and fun, yet very extensive with weekly memory verses and step by step bible reading and questions about the child's own walk with the Lord. It puts the child in the role of a movie director researching Jesus' life for a movie. There are lots of study questions, as well as games and puzzles to make it really interesting. Third grade is the very youngest I would have a child doing this study, in fact we are taking 2 weeks to do each weekly unit, and it would be just as interesting for an older child up through jr. high.

I have looked at these Kay Arthur Kid studies for years because I have been leading Precept Inductive studies since 2000. My kids are just the right age for them. I have two boys in 4th and 6th grade, and they are loving this study. They make storyboards and search for key words and answer 5 W and an H questions, and they are really enjoying it. We do it every other day during our Bible time in homeschool. As a special bonus, since we are making a "movie" of the book of John, we watch The Gospel of John on DVD. It is a word-for-word script of the book of John. It is great for them to see an actual movie interpretation for the chapter they just studied inductively. It is a hit so far!

Love this series of workbooks for kids! Teaching my Grandkids about the Bible . The workbooks are very understandable and have questions and things to do to help the kids understand what they are studying. We studied the Books on Revelations and they absolutely loved studying Revelations.

I bought this particular study based on the author, Kay Arthur, and her reputation. I was not disappointed. My 8-year-old son has really gotten into Bible study with the help of this book. It is challenging for him, but he is able to understand it with a little help at times. It is right on target for my 10-year-old. It has a variety of activities to reinforce the Bible texts. I totally recommend this for an at-home study.

I started using this devotional for my homeschooling kids for Bible lessons . My son is a 6th grader who reads at a lower level. I was concerned he would have a hard time with this, but it is just the right amount of reading for him. He enjoys the puzzle games and learning more about the Bible in a fun way. The book is divided into chapters with five days of lessons in each chapter. It's perfect for a homeschooling Bible class. I think this would work well for a discipleship group as well!

I may have jumped the gun on buying this. It was a bit beyond what my daughter was ready for. I think for our family just being in God's word and talking about it as a family is enough for now. This gets pretty deep with all the questions and such.

How would I describe this book - well it is based the WORD OF GOD and it is THE TRUTH about creation - not what man claims it is - the big bang. How can anything that explodes become so BEAUTIFUL and who is the one who created all the energy to cause things to come together AFTER an explosion. For me the Word of God is so easy to understand and it is CLEAR / PLAIN - even a child can understand it...

I am currently using this book for a 5th-6th grade Kids Club at our church. It is such a great tool for kids who have study the bible for years as well as those who walked in for the first time this year. I am very pleased with how this study is going and am looking forward to using more Discover 4 yourself books in the future.
