A beautifully written and illustrated addition to the Bucket Filling books!! Gives kids of all ages examples from A to Z of being good friends, preventing bullying and ways to build self-esteem in themselves and others. Parents and teachers alike will absolutely rely on this book to help teach bucket filling to children!! Children will love the rhyming of this book and find it an enjoyable read!!

I love this series and classroom management system! Many of the ideas I've researched focused on elementary aged children but this book is perfect for preschoolers too! This one is a nice way to integrate the alphabet as well!

Title: Bucket Filling from A to Z: The Key to Being Happy Authors: Carol McCloud and Caryn

Bucket filling is easy, as easy as can be. You can fill a bucket all the way from A to Z. Here are some ideas for things that you can do to make others happy and fill your bucket too,Ã¢â¬Â Carol McCloud and Caryn Butzke write in their childrenÃ¢â¬Âs book, Bucket Filling from A to Z: The Key to Being Happy. At thirty-two unnumbered pages, this over-sized paperback targets children ages two to eight years old, especially those learning their ABCs or want to be considerate of others. With no scary scenes or profanity, it may be best read out loud by adults to beginner readers due to some complicated wording. Known as the Bucket Lady, McCloud is an early childhood specialist, award-winning author, and popular speaker. Author Butzke has worked in business management for twenty years, and this is her debut book. Illustrator Zimmer has more than thirty yearsÃ¢â¬Â experience in publishing and started illustrating childrenÃ¢â¬Âs books in 2010. In this rhyming alphabet book, the writers state that everyone has an invisible bucket to collect activities that make them happy. By helping others, offering kind words, and caring, one can fill their bucket and be happy. After several pages of suggesting filling the bucket with doing good, one page is dedicated to each of the twenty-six letters of the alphabet and include an uplifting four-line rhyme. Here are three examples:Ã¢â¬Â E is for ExcitedÃ¢â¬Â Excited to fill buckets, youÃ¢â¬Âre a bucketfilling star. Day and night and always, no matter where you are.Ã¢â¬Â N is for NoticeÃ¢â¬Â Notice all the helpful things that other people do. Tell them that they filled your bucket and add a big Ã¢â¬Âthank you.Ã¢â¬Â W is for WatchÃ¢â¬Â Watch out for bucket dipping. ItÃ¢â¬Âs a time to use your lid. It will protect your bucket from a bucketdipping kid. The full-color, full-page, detailed illustrations set the cheery mood with energetic expressions of children as well as adults and small buckets that are mostly overflowing with hearts of love and stars of happiness. Although the book does not acknowledge God bringing ultimate joy and contentment, this bright and fun read will encourage many young ones to reach out to others. Thanks to Jenkins Group for furnishing this complimentary book in exchange for a review of the readerÃ¢â¬Âs honest opinion.

Helps teach kids ways to reach out and encourage others taking the focus off themselves. Nice ideas for adults as well.

We have been using this book daily at our house. We have literally setup buckets with names on them, and when someone hits, kicks, screams, belittles, talks down to each other, acts mean or anything negative we make them sit in the buckets as punishment. Honestly I wasn't sure when I first read the book that we were supposed to do it this way, but golly, they have really started to love on each other instead of sitting for 20 minutes in their buckets while their legs and feet go numb. Thanks Carol you rock! P.S. We might need to get some bigger buckets, my kids are growing...UPDATE: Based on negative feedback, we have to put this disclaimer out that states "we don't actually put them in a bucket anymore" this was a satirical review based on real results.

I am teaching anti-bullying to K-3 students this year and am using this book to share ways to be happy.

My class loves these... we talk about one each week with the letter of the week were focused on. We implement role plays connected to the strategy implied for that letter to bring it down to a concrete level for students to then apply!

My daughter had a kindergarten teacher who talked about bucket filling. This books was a great addition to reinforce this concept at home. This A-Z rhyming books shows children how they can help others, think positively and gain self confidence. Simple message, simply told. Great book for teachers and their classrooms as well as parents.
